DAVID WEEKLEY HOMES MAKES FORTUNE LIST
 Only Homebuilder Recognized Six Times

HOUSTON (Jan. 08, 2007) – One of the nation’s foremost business publications has recognized David Weekley Homes in its annual rankings of business success. FORTUNE® touted David Weekley Homes as one of the “100 Best Companies to Work For.”

“At David Weekley Homes we want to create a culture people want to work in. By developing our Team, giving them the tools to reach their highest potential and offering them a chance to grow, we can ensure our company’s success and our customers’ satisfaction,” said David Weekley, Chairman of David Weekley Homes. “Team Members (employees) are an investment in the company’s future and we take their happiness very seriously. We are certainly proud of this national recognition that confirms we are doing what it takes to compete successfully and responsibly in today’s marketplace.”

David Weekley Homes’ number 12th overall ranking and 2nd among small companies on FORTUNE’s “100 Best Companies to Work For” list was based on the company’s evaluation of the policies and culture, and the opinions of the company's employees. David Weekley Homes employs more than 1,400 Team Members nationwide.

“We expect the best and bring out the best in our Team Members,” said Weekley. “To do that we provide the tools to enhance their lives both professionally and personally, like our Outreach Program and Marketplace Chaplains USA.”

Marketplace Chaplains USA, active in all 18 markets, provides employee assistance free of charge. The program is open to all Team Members and their immediate families who need special guidance or advice or who simply need someone to lend an ear 24-hours a day, 365 days a year. Non-denominational chaplains are also readily available to help Team Members with wedding or funeral arrangements.
